

Skykomish

2011-09-09

Mob Causes Historic, Tectonic Shift

Skykomish Hotel parties worked tirelessly these past 11 years to return a viable, sustainable economic model that would allow families, entrepreneurs, businesses and investors to thrive in this scenic, but struggling Cascade mountain town.

These efforts continue to meet stiff resistance, as predatory discrimination, harassment, derision and retaliation remain the order of the day.

The results are readily apparent. Despite new streets, sidewalks and period lighting following Ecology's 'quick and dirty' environmental cleanup scam, the town's economy remains on life support.

Revenues have dried up and our school, post office and library may soon become the latest Municipal Suicide victims. Even Sky's two remaining taverns appear to be suffering a dearth of thirsty customers.

This desperate economic situation can be directly traced to Sky's misunderstanding of and lack of respect for the 'Rule of Law'.

As Mob Rule took root, flowered and became firmly entrenched; businesses, investors and entrepreneurs headed for the hills, correctly realizing that their efforts and hard earned money were now subject to the whims of Sky's hungry, angry Mob.

While the Town's latest effort to steal the Skykomish Hotel will be challenged, an historic, tectonic shift occurred as the result of last month's Council meeting (video part 1) and (video part 2).

The Mob wasn't present at Monday's meeting to speak out against Mayor and Council's latest outrage, but instead to be entertained, as Hotel parties were illegally stopped from recording at open public meeting, silenced and evicted.

Things didn't work out quite as advertised, but townies were nevertheless amused.

Unfortunately the Mob's entertainment came with a cost, as Hotel parties once and for all understood that the financial investment necessary to renovate and reopen this historic structure could never be justified.

Captain E.J. Smith yelled “It’s Every Man for Himself” just before the Titanic slid beneath the waves. Like Captain Smith, Hotel parties must now cast Sky’s interests aside, as they singularly fight to protect their interests exclusively.

Seeing the Mob’s thirst for blood was a frightening spectacle and an unmistakable demonstration of just how low Skykomish has fallen.

Saving the historic Hotel can no longer be considered viable. It will be demolished when ordered by the Town, as Hotel parties can no longer tolerate Mob efforts to steal what they’re not willing to work for.

Save what’s left of your town or lose it.

Visit our new Hard Hitting Resources page!

Teh Lulz

Skykomish... It’s Time to Stand up for You, Your Town and America!